A show of hands ... how many of you voted in the past election? Ok, so that's not too different from the national statistic.

Only thirty-eight percent of young americans cast ballots in the last presidential election, and that's mostly because they didn't feel they could cast informed ballots.

That's where right2vote comes in. We make the process fun, easy and accessible by turning it into a game -- swipe right for ideas you agree with, left for ones you don't, and we'll match you with candidates who share your views, so everyone can access their right2vote.
