This medium-fi prototype is hosted on InVision, requiring internet connectivity to be used. Please follow the above link to reach the prototype.

Due to the nature of InVision/Medium-Fi prototype, our current prototype does not allow for

- a) User input – we created pre-made search results
- b) Providing updated information about homes through database querying – we pre-made different tabs for a home with fabricated information.
- c) Sorting / usage of filters. They are currently there for show.
- d) And lastly, we currently only support searching through the different tabs / viewing the report of one home.

With that in mind, the proto-type itself works as if you were on an iPad. Hover your mouse over the different regions you'd like to interact with and click away.

Note – InVision's site allows both scrolling through pictures as well as interacting with the proto-type through links built into the images. For the best possible experience – only click within the iPad cutout on your screen. Do not scroll through the images using the right and left arrows outside the iPad frame.
