¿Q?

Social radio over mesh network of speakers voting up songs pushes it higher in queue

Intuitive, clean interface (would use) Wanted more details

valid: social & difficult

Rave

compass to flash concerts

clean interface but intimidating

validish: people like raves stranger danger

Sessions

live collaboration over internet listeners tune in

cool concept nuances

invalidish: compatible musicians = difficult to find
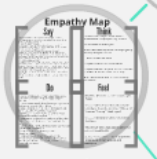
can't replicate live



How might we

keep music from getting old?

How might we

make music listening more social and less labor intensive?

How might we

connect musicians to each other and listeners around them?

Point of View
Colette

first person → hard music picking music → gets old

Gamechange?
give some say but low reach

Point of View
Erik

method of listening experience

Gamechange?
simplify audio customization

Point of View
Emi

Glasgow amplifies niche

Gamechange?
Connect people in niche

Initial Point of View Arianna

Recommendations → 1 person

Gamechange?
Connect them more directly

Surprises

Biggest influence? → friends
Erik wasn't special Emi → concerts
Katie → movies significant overlap

Needfinding 2.0

Erik
audiophile / musician

Emi
snowboarder / concertgoer

Katie
master debater / physics

Value Proposition

Q is a locally synchronized social radio

Problem

People want an effortless way to discover new music from friends without feeling pressured to.

Solution

Q is a crowd-powered local radio queue, which synchronizes a shared musical experience across many speakers.

Tasks

Play song - moderate
User picks a song to play from his/her library to start a new network

Network analytics - complex Show the user their impact on what other people listen to Add song to queue - moderate Anyone on the network can upload a song from their library

Voting - simple
Voting determines a song's status in the queue.

Joining - simple
Anyone can join a network

Storyboard

One continual take a la Easy A gossip scene

Wanted a drone for outdoor shots but it didn't materialize

We also ended up switching the male and female roles in the video
