

ClassLens

Class feedback that's actually useful

Problem

Currently, there's no organized way to understand how skills gained in a class are useful in future classes or job

Solution

Former students give feedback on how skills gained in a class are useful in later jobs or classes

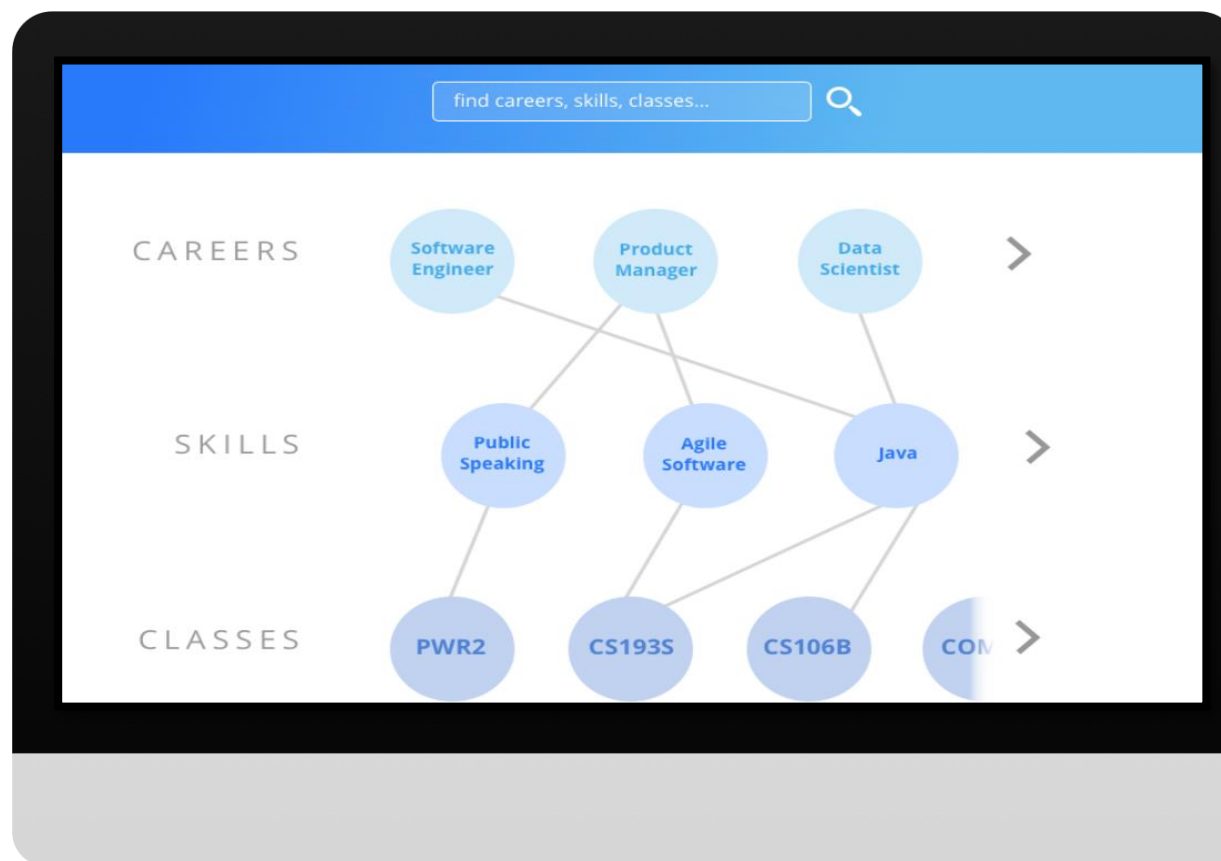

Current students can see whether a course is valuable for their short and long-term goals

Teachers can use this feedback to see how to revise their courses

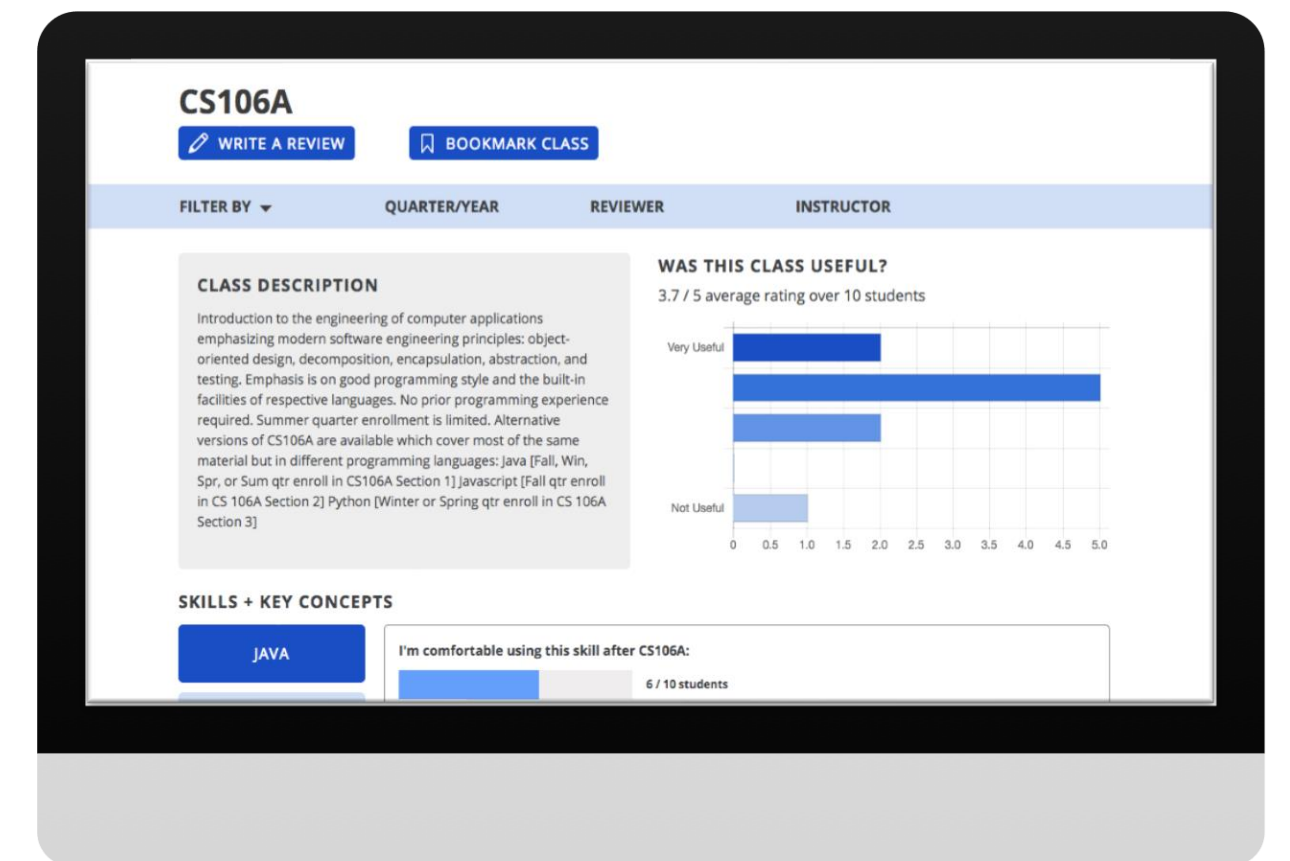

Key Features

Former students review past classes

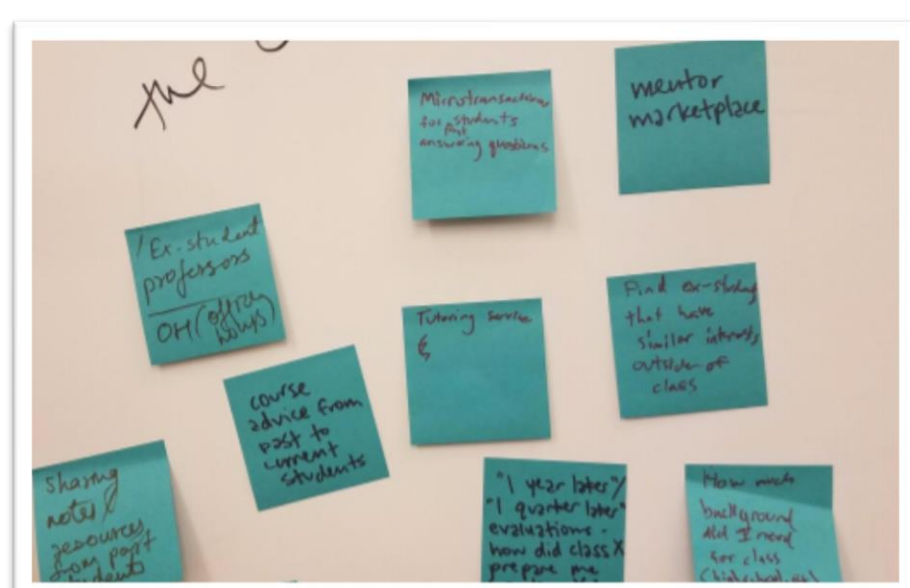

Current students explore careers, skills and courses
