Our Value Proposition:

“Streamlining journalism from pitch to publication”

What we’re solving

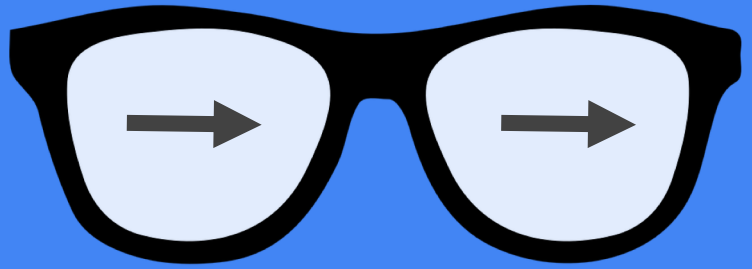
We see the problem: journalism is often an unavoidably hectic process. We’re here to change that by making a simple tool that allows journalists to record and develop their ideas until they’re ready to be published.

First Task: Simple

Journalists need to review the ideas they've recorded.

From headline ideas to key facts and statistics about their current project, journalists need to stay on top of their ideas.

Second Task: Moderate



Journalists need to know what to do next

With all of the aspects journalists have to their jobs, they need to know where to go, what to research, and who to talk to.

Third Task: Complex

Journalists need to quickly go from notes to storyline

Journalists keep track of a plethora of data. They need to be able to organize what they have into a publishable article.
